As you can see, I am urging the Board to act favorably. The space is a bit larger than we would need, but not by much. You can probably get about 25-30 people into this space if necessary, but with your plan to grow to 18, this is a reasonably safety margin. You can plan the space for the 15-20, and create more common areas, conference rooms, and so forth to make use of the space while you are fewer in number. Meanwhile, if your growth is faster than expected, you won't have to move.

May your growth exceed your greatest expectations and may your requirements expand faster than anticipated.

You won't believe how committed I am to make OxyContin a huge success. It is almost that I dedicated my life to it. After the initial launch phase I will have to catch up with my private life again.

It is also so encouraging to see and experience how happy the key pain specialists are for me. I intend to invite the President of the Pain Society to our Gala night at the end of the kick off meeting. It is unusual to have customers at company functions. But we have such good relationship with them that in some cases I know they would like to join us and also meet you. We could do it all under banner of Partners against Pain....and OxyContin of course.

Kind Regards

Must go back to packing. We are moving into the new house on Monday and I am way behind with packing.

Purdue v. Boehringer

How do we proceed from here? I am waiting for fit out costings. We have provisions in our balance sheet. What do you recommend I do once I have the costings. We put a deposit on the floor to secure the space for the moment until we can present a full proposal to you.
Kind regards
